

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK—OCT. 5 to 11—REMOVE FIRE HAZARDS FROM YOUR PREMISES

DEATH OF MARK ROGERS

Mark C. Rogers was found dead in his fourteenth street home at Lethbridge at 2:30 Tuesday morning. The evidence points to suicide by shooting with a Winchester shotgun. An inquest will be held at two o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

The late Mr. Rogers, who was a man of wide and varied business interests, had packed his grip and was waiting to take train to Calgary. He left a note which will be produced at the inquest today.

The story of the tragedy under circumstances which point to suicide, Mark C. Rogers was found fatally shot in his residence, 413 fourteenth street south, on the right of the stairs in the hall used as a den, at 2:30 on Tuesday morning. The body when found was lying on its back with a Winchester repeating shotgun by his side. Tightly gripped in the right hand of the deceased was the cleaning rod of the gun, which had presumably been pressed against the trigger of the gun when the shot was fired, penetrating the head, blowing the top off and scattering the brains, causing death. The shot was No. 6, a small bird shot, and in the gun was found a live cartridge.

Leaving For Calgary

It would appear from what can be ascertained that Mr. Rogers had got out of bed to catch the early morning train for Calgary. He had his car ready to take him to the station, and in it he had deposited his bag. He had risen from the bedroom on the night of the tragedy when he seemed to be in good spirits and chatted freely. Along with his wife he had been talking and joking with some friends, and little knowing what had taken place, she rushed across the street to the residence of Arthur Barnsley who lives opposite. Together with Chief Constable Harris and J. B. Turner, Mr. Barnsley went to the Rogers' residence where they saw the gruesome sight. Dr. Ray was summoned and pronounced life extinct. The body was removed to the undertaking parlors of Martin Bros.

In the room where the tragedy took place was found a note from the deceased, which was taken charge of by Coroner McNicol, who was at the residence when phoned for immediately he was apprised of what had taken place. This will be produced at the inquest which will be held at two o'clock this afternoon.

It has transpired that Mr. Rogers had made arrangements to go to Calgary on Sunday but had postponed his visit to Tuesday morning. He was seen by two or three people on the night of the tragedy when he seemed to be in good spirits and chatted freely. Along with his wife he had been talking and joking with some friends, and little knowing what had taken place, she rushed across the

By Royal Proclamation, His Excellency, the Governor General of Canada has designated October 5th to 11th as Fire Prevention Week. During that week, lessons on fire prevention subjects will be given in the schools, public meetings will be held in many of the larger cities, towns and villages, and the owners and occupants of property everywhere throughout Canada will be counselled to give special attention to the removal of fire hazards from their premises.

TURK INVASIONS OF MESOPOTAMIA CAUSES CONCERN BRITISH CIRCLES

London, Sept. 27.—There has been a renewal of the trouble along the frontier of Iraq (Mesopotamia) within the last three days, according to an unofficial report printed by the Morning Post, the Turks having crossed the boundary and again being repulsed by British airmen. The situation is stated from the same source to be tenser than the British government was led to believe, but direct news is lacking.

Press opinion is divided regarding Ankara's responsibility for the incursions. The Times treats the situation as a "bare-faced attempt by the Turkish rulers to take forcible possession, during arbitration of the disputed territory," but assumes that if this move fails some local general or governor will be made the scapegoat. This view is not universal and the tendency in army headquarters is to suspend judgment for the present. Everywhere, however, there is anxiety lest the situation develop seriously and lead to grave trouble. The occupation of Iraq has been a hotly-contested political question working at a considerable section of opinion has long urged that Great Britain quit the country.

This is strongly reiterated today by the Daily News, which says if there is danger of the present conflict developing it will be the wisest policy for Great Britain to clear out of the country where she already has squandered so much and obtained so little.

MRS. DUNBAR LOSES SIGHT OF EYE

Mrs. S. G. Dunbar, of Macleod, went to Calgary last week to see the specialists regarding the loss of sight in her right eye, and the outcome of the consultation was to the effect that the sight was permanently lost. It appears Mrs. Dunbar was working at her household duties, when suddenly several sharp flashes crossed the eye, and from that time the sight was destroyed. The loss of sight in the eye is attributed to paralysis of the optic nerve.

of great romances, "The Three Musketeers." "Not only is 'The Three Musketeers' a regular laugh special, but it has other features not always found in a comedy. It has a connected story, whereas so many comedies consist of a series of more or less disconnected events as vehicles for comedy stunts. "Then there are big and beautiful settings and actually superb photographic effects, and a cast that is about as nearly all-star as they get them. In addition to Max Linder, who plays the leading role, there are Bull Montana, Frank Cooke, Catherine Rankin, Johnnie Ralston, Jack Richardson, Charles Metzetti, Clarence Werpe, Fred Cavens and Harry Mann."

ALL COMEDY CAST WITH MAX LINDER

Bull Montana and Other Stars in "The Three-Must-Get-Theres"

There are casts, real casts and all-star casts, and then there are screen comedy casts so good that each player brings a laugh to the spectator in everything that he does—and that is the kind of cast there is in Max Linder's latest five reel film comedy, "The Three Must-Get-Theres," a most laughable kind of a burlesque on Dumas' great romance, "The Three Musketeers."

Of course Max Linder is the international comedy favorite, maker of cinema comedies that for years have been making movie fans of all countries laugh, and "The Three Must-Get-Theres" is his first feature production for Allied Producers and Distributors Corporation, which has been booked by the management of the Empress Theatre as the chief feature attraction for next Friday and Saturday.

Of course, Max Linder plays the leading role of D'Artagnan—or Durt-In-Again—with Jack Richardson, Charles Metzetti and Clarence Werpe, appearing as "Walrus," "Octopus" and "Porpoise," better known to the lovers of "The Three Musketeers" as Athos, Aramis and Porthos. Frank Cooke is seen in the role of King Louis XIII, with Bull Montana cast as the Duke of Richelieu under the burlesque title of the "Duke of Rich-Lou." Catherine Rankin appears as the Queen, with Johnnie Ralston as "Constance," the Queen's seamstress with whom Durt-In-Again falls madly in love. Fred Cavens takes the role of Fire waste is one of the most serious economic problems confronting Canada at the present time. The public in general is vitally affected by the tremendous losses annually incurred by fire and the enormous expenditures rendered necessary to adequately protect life and property from its ravages. Seeing that at least seventy-five per cent of all fires are caused by carelessness and can therefore be prevented, it is the obvious duty of the public to do all in its power to make this week one of real protective measures.

LIQUOR VENDORS SELLING ESSENCES

In the days of old a good housewife could buy a bottle of liquor at the grocery store; now she has to buy her flavoring extracts at the liquor store. In the ruling by the provincial government went into effect, "kicky" extracts and essences are sold only at the government vendors' stores.

The liquor stores now have a complete line on hand and are ready to do business. It is not necessary to have a liquor permit to purchase flavorings, and there is no stated limit to the amount that may be obtained at one time.

BANDITS CRACK SAFE BASHAW POST OFFICE

Calgary, Sept. 27.—Scattering $500 worth of postage stamps about the floor, safe burglars escaped with about $150 in cash and some cheques after cracking the safe of the post office at Bashaw about 2:30 o'clock Saturday morning.

George Smyth, druggist, heard the explosion and immediately notified Constable Crossly, resident member of the A. P. P. there, who quickly communicated with other business men of the town through the central telephone office and checked all roads leading out of town. No track of the bandits was found at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, and the theory is advanced that a car had been parked outside the town during the robbery, as no trace of a car leaving after the explosion took place can be found. Entrance to the post office was gained through a back window.

SITUATION IN HOLY CITY IS GRAVE

London, Sept. 29.—It has been learned that a telegram was received in London from King Hussein, of the Hedjaz, dated at Mecca, Saturday night, describing the situation there as "very grave."

No official news has been received, frequently we would be only half way through it when the light would fail again and the whole effort was wasted.

We made our headquarters at a point where we were about equidistant from the various locations chosen. The most distant was forty-five miles away with a two thousand foot climb at the end. From the summit of the mountain was a magnificent vista of snow-capped peaks. Below us was a sheer drop of over fifteen hundred feet.

In order that we might be on location when the sun was in the right quarter to light the whole of this wonderful background of mountain ranges, we had to leave camp at two o'clock in the morning, ride the forty-five miles and then climb our mountain.

There is one thing I must say about those northern latitudes. When the sun does shine, the country is rarely beautiful. The forest, the vari-colored rock strata of the mountains, the far view of river and lake and plane, are fascinating. Making "The Alaskan" taught me something of the love which northerners have for their country.

Lack of sunshine was by no means our only difficulty. We had mosquitoes which drove us nearly frantic. Spots which we picked for certain scenes because the snow looked very well, became dry ground as fast as the snow could melt and escape. Where we didn't want snow, it fell in tons from the cliffs. We had a flood which swept away one of our sets, a construction camp, after we had made a few scenes there, and needed some more to complete.

I should like to pay a tribute to the patience and unfailing cheerfulness of Thomas Meighan, the star of the picture and to the players who supported him in the face of discouragement, difficulties and discomforts. "The Alaskan," I think, reflects the spirit of loyalty and determination which marked every member of the company which went with me into the north.

RANCHER PRINCE AT HOME ON HIS ALBERTA PROPERTY

"It's great to be back!" Taking a deep breath of the rare air that blows down from the snow-capped Rockies over his E. P. ranch, H.R.H., Edward, Prince of Wales, made this remark on Friday, afternoon in the course of a ride over his 4,000 acres of Alberta property.

After a brief rest after his arrival at the ranch at noon on Friday, the prince began a thorough inspection of the premises, commenting with pleasure on the improvements and additions that have been made since he was there one year ago.

Pleased With Appearance He expressed delight with the general appearance of the ranch and was greatly pleased with the excellent condition of his livestock.

But he was impatient to get into the saddle and early in the afternoon started on a round of the ranch, accompanied by members of his suite and the ranch manager. It was a perfect afternoon and the royal party greatly enjoyed the outing, returning in the early evening for the first evening meal at the ranch house. Fatigued with his activities in the east and his trip through Canada, his royal highness was in bed early and appeared at 8 o'clock on Saturday morning.

No Plans Made No plans had been made for the morning. The prince is "just going to kick around" and relax after a rather strenuous three weeks. No plans have been made for Saturday afternoon or for Sunday.

In Calgary October 9 According to present plans the Prince of Wales will be in Calgary from the afternoon of Thursday, October 9, until the early morning hours of Friday, October 10.

On Friday afternoon Canadian National Railway officials submitted an itinerary for the trip west and it has been approved by his royal highness. Of course, this schedule is liable to variation. The prince is on a holiday and does not intend to run too closely to schedule.

So far as is known at present the prince will pursue the following itinerary:

Wednesday, October 1.—Leave High River in evening for Jasper Park, stopping over in Calgary yards for a few minutes.

Thursday, October 2.—Stay at Jasper Park.

Saturday, October 4.—Will spend day and night in Vancouver.

Sunday, October 5.—Will go to Victoria.

Tuesday, October 7.—Leaves Victoria on his way east.

Thursday, October 10.—Leaves Calgary in the early morning. East of Calgary the route has not been decided upon.

however, definitely indicating that the city has fallen.

Reports Likely True London, Sept. 29.—While the Moslem world is anxiously awaiting confirmation of the report that Mecca has been captured by the Wahabites, a fellow employee, James Taylor fell and fractured his skull.

McLeary is now held in the police cells and will appear for preliminary hearing.

When the city police, on being notified of what had taken place, arrived at the Dairy about twenty minutes after six, Taylor was found dead.

Dr. Lovering was summoned and found the man dying. He expired in his presence before any medical aid could be rendered. The whole affair occurred in the space of a few minutes, the deceased man falling between the shipping and the washing room in the dairy.

Cause of Argument As far as can be ascertained there was an argument between Taylor and McLeary over the want of steam pressure in the boiler room, and the blow was struck during the altercation.

McLeary was arrested on the charge of manslaughter and lodged in custody in the police cell, to appear before the magistrate at ten o'clock on Tuesday morning.

Deceased was about 35 years of age and married, and is said to have a wife and family of three children.

"We, the jury empaneled to enquire into the cause of death of James Taylor, find as follows: "That the said James Taylor came to his death at about 6 p.m. September 29, 1924, at the Crystal Dairy building, Lethbridge, Alberta as the result of a fractured skull, which fracture was caused by his skull coming in contact with a concrete floor after a blow having been delivered by one McLeary."

"Rider—Your jury are of the opinion that the blow delivered by McLeary was not delivered with intention of doing injury to the said James Taylor."

Signed—R. V. Gibbons, foreman, A. E. Cross, D. A. Smith, R. Morland, A. Neidig, David Livingstone.

This was the finding of the jury at the inquest held by Coroner McNicol Tuesday night in the Lethbridge city police court to inquire into the causes of the death of the late James Taylor, who died at the Crystal Dairy on Monday evening.

WILL ORGANIZE EVENING CLASSES

On Friday evening at the Town Hall, J. H. Ross of the Provincial Institute of Technology, will at a Public Meeting explain the outline and courses of the proposed evening classes to be run in Macleod for the winter months. These classes have proven very popular in all other large centres and are well attended. Subjects that are taken up are Auto and Steam engineering, dress making, millinery, basket work, woodwork, music, art and commercial studies. Mr. Ross is a good speaker and the Macleod people should show their appreciation of the work that is being done in these evening classes by attending the Town Hall on Friday October 3rd.

DIED AS RESULT OF BLOW

A fatality, with almost instantaneous death, took place on the premises of the Crystal Dairy Lethbridge, about six o'clock on Monday evening, when as a result of a blow, alleged to have been struck by Samuel McLeary, a fellow employee, James Taylor fell and fractured his skull.

McLeary is now held in the police cells and will appear for preliminary hearing.

SHIRKING WORLD RESPONSIBILITY

If the United States decides definitely to abandon battleships for aircraft exclusively, the world can only conclude that this great nation is intent upon shirking its moral responsibility to help keep peace on the seven seas of the earth.

For home defense, the battleship is obsolete. But until the science of flying is able to produce an airship capable of successfully patrolling remote areas, as the battleship does, the great Anglo-Saxon powers, upon whose ideals of progress depend the peace of the world, must maintain their battleships no matter what the cost.

If the United States withdraws from the battleship field to concentrate all defensive expenditures upon aircraft that can operate no further than a few hundred miles from American shores, the whole burden of policing the seven seas will fall in crushing force upon the British Empire.

The isolationist idea, fostered by demagogues in the United States, has had many vicious results. But it has had none so vicious as this proposal. The one lesson that political America must learn is that once some little remote corner of the earth develops a political disease, infection from that disease may contaminate the whole earth. The long arm of Anglo-Saxon civilization must be in eternal readiness to reach out and deal with barbarism, reactionism and revolt against progress wherever and whenever such may occur.

Upon that readiness depends the very existence of this civilization. As yet, aircraft do not afford the advantage of sufficient reach. Only armed cruisers are capable today of maintaining Anglo-Saxon order in the furthest corners of the globe.

If the United States is contemplating defense reforms, she must lay down a fundamental policy and determine its consequences.

TURNING THE IMMIGRATION

Tide of Canadian emigration to the United States is still on the flow, according to official figures just given out at Ottawa.

The only way that tide can be turned is to study the magnets that attract Canadians to the United States and then establish magnets of similar attractiveness in Canada.

The history of world migration shows that there has always been some single colorful major attraction to start the flow of population from one country to another. In past California has been merchandized extensively and intensively. Climate, scenery and the myth of "easy money" have all been played up to attract settlers. And this one major attraction, California, has drawn a flow of Canadian population to every American state.

The one big major attraction that Canada could set up to reverse that flow is the Peace River country with its thousands of acres of cheap fertile land.

Give the Peace River a transportation outlet to the Pacific and it would do for the whole of Western Canada what California has done for every western state.

AMERICA'S FIRST ADVERTISER

Christopher Columbus, says a Danish historian in a Copenhagen despatch, was only a second-rater.

Long before the famous Christopher set foot on these shores in 1492, claims this Dane, a Portuguese navigator, Jean Vaz Corte Real, discovered Labrador.

And then long before Real, Norse adventurers are supposed to have landed in New England.

How then did Columbus manage to get all the credit for doing something that had been done before?

The answer is—by advertising.

The Norsemen and the Portuguese got here first. But they sailed away home and forgot about it.

Christopher Columbus happened along years later, but when he got home he told his sisters and brothers, uncles and aunts, friends and neighbors, and even buttonholed strangers on the streets. He was America's first advertiser.

There is only one better thing than discovering something good. And that is to give everybody a chance to benefit by it.

And these roses, the fairest that ever were seen?
Kilmeny, Kilmeny, where have you been?

Kilmeny looked up with a lovely grace,
But nae smile was seen on Kilmeny's face;
As still was her look and as still was her eye,
As the stillness that lay on the emerald sea.

For Kilmeny had been, she knew not where,
And Kilmeny had seen what she could not declare;
Kilmeny had been where the cock never crew,
Where the rain never fell, and the wind never blew.

But it seemed as the harp of the sky had rung,
And the air of heaven played round her tongue,
When she spoke of the lovely forms she had seen,
And a land where sin had never been;

A land of love and a land of light,
Without sun, or moon, or night;
Where the river swelled, a living stream,
And the light a pure celestial beam;

But here is a less eerie apparition—
A merry little fellow, without shoes or stockings, intent on dabbling up and down the stream. He calls himself "the barefoot boy," and, if you know your poets, you will stroke his curly head and say:

Blessings on thee, little man,
Barefoot boy, with cheek of tan!
With thy turned-up pantaloons,
And thy merry whistled tunes;

With thy red lip, redder still Kissed by strawberries on the hill;
Through thy torn brim's jaunty grace,
From my heart I give thee joy,—
I was once a barefoot boy.....

But before you have finished he will have escaped into a treetop, and be whistling back to the wood robins.—Richard le Gallienne, in "The Dream Children of Literature."

Just at present, however, we can't remember America's champion fancy handler of the hoe.

There is no doubt that within the next century sugar and starch will be as cheap as sawdust.

There is no doubt that within the years, science will be able to produce synthetically, a complete and satisfactory diet with which agriculture cannot compete on the basis of cost.

This will mean that agriculture will become a luxury and mankind will be thoroughly urbanized.

As Professor Haldane of Cambridge University says:
"Human progress in historical time has been the progress of cities dragging a reluctant countryside in their wake. Synthetic food will substitute the flower garden and the factory for the dunghill and slaughterhouse, and make the city at last self-sufficient."

But this is 1924, not 2074. And agriculture is still the one best bet for the prosperity of nations.

THE BANNER OF THE CHILD

It was Paul Dombey who, unconsciously enough, raised the banner of the child. Dickens is very near to Shakespeare in that moment of divination when the little frail and moonlit Paul is first taken to school and confronted with the magnificent Dr. Blimber—Dr. Blimber, who means so well in his plush, middle-class way.

"Shall we make a man of you?" asked Dr. Blimber.

Little Paul replied: "I would rather be a child."

Without knowing it, how right little Dombey was!.....Is it not always felt to be a special grace of nature when we say of anyone that he has kept the heart of a child.

This we say of Goldsmith, of Lamb, and of Stevenson, with the sense of paying them signal tribute, and the first law of most greatness is the law of the Kingdom of Heaven.

I would write.....of those who belong to the whole world's dream-land—that corner of the world of dreams where we may come upon a little girl in a red hood carrying daintily in her basket for an old grandmother who lives in a lonely hut in the forest, the same forest where you may find two babes lying asleep under a covert of leaves which the kind robins are spreading over them, or meet with Little Boy Blue blowing his horn, or come just in time to save Little Silverlocks from the three bears; there is no end to the famous people you may meet in this corner of the dream world, and so little is it necessary to grow up to become famous that one can seriously claim that there are no names better known than those one meets with there.

Think of being as famous as Little Red Ridinghood!.....Let us wander in this land awhile, and see if we can meet with any more of its famous inhabitants!

Yes; here comes Kilmeny, a Scotch maiden, with a strange dream on her face. For seven long years she has been missing from her home in the glen.....Kilmeny, where have you been?

Lang has we sought bath holt and den;
By linn, by ford, and greenwood tree,
Yet you are halesome and fair to see.
Where gat you that joup o' the lily sheen,
That bonnie snood of the birk sae green?

THERE IS A HILL BESIDE THE SILVER THAMES

There is a hill beside the silver Thames,
Shady with birch and beech and odorous pine:
And brilliant underfoot with thousand sand gems.

Steeply the thickets to his floods decline.
Straight trees in every place
Their thick tops interlace,
And pendant branches trail their foliage fine
Upon his watery face.

Swift from the sweltering pasturage he flows:
His stream, alert to seek the pleasant shade,
Pictures his gentle purpose, as he goes Straight to the caverned pool his toil has made.

His winter floods lay bare
The stout roots in the air:
His summer streams are cool, when they have played
Among their fibrous hair.

A rushy island guards the sacred bower,
And hides it from the meadow, where in peace
The lazy cows wrench many a scented flower,
Robbing the golden market of the bees:

And laden barges float
By banks of myosotis;
And scented flag and golden flower-de-lays Delay the loitering boat.

And on this side the island, where the pool
Eddies away, are tangled mass on mass
The water-weeds, that net the fishes cool,
And scarce allow a narrow stream to pass;

Where spreading crowfoot mars
The drowning nenuphars,
Waving the tassels of her silken grass
Below her silver stars.....

Where is this bower beside the silver Thames?
O pool and flowery thickets, hear my wail!
O trees of freshest foliage and straight stems,
No sharer of my secret I follow.

Least ere I come the while Strange feet your shades defile;
Or lest the burly oarsman turn his prow
Within your guardian isle.

—Robert Bridges.

ETIQUETTE FOR BRIDEGROOMS

When you stand before the altar
Scared and waiting for the halter
Don't let wild imagination throw your senses in a whirl;

You have not become a midge
Nor a giant; nor a fidget;
No one's looking at you mister; they are looking at the girl.

When it's time for osculations
It will please your wife's relations Should you miss her mouth and give your wife a peck upon the chin;
When they tease about it later
With much tittering and laughter

THE SECOND GENERATION OFFSPRING OF RANGE EWES AND PURE-BRED MUTTON RAMS

By using pure-bred rams and carefully selecting the ewes, a flock of commonly bred sheep may be entirely remodeled in a very few years. This was accomplished at the Dominion Experimental Station at Rosthern, Saskatchewan, according to the report of the Superintendent, Mr. F. A.
Munro, who states that this experience has been duplicated by many practical sheep raisers throughout the West, not only with Leicester sires, the breed used at the Station, but with pure-bred sires of either long-wooled and Down breeds.

In the fall of 1915, the report states, one hundred range-bred ewes of mixed breeding were used as a foundation for a grade breeding flock at the Rosthern Station. In 1922, by the use of pure-bred Leicester rams, some 50 applications have already been received by the settlement board in London. Although the stipulation was that not less than 100 were to be sent out in the first party, application has been made to the department in Edmonton to have the fifty young men sent out at once to commence their training.

The Junior Red Cross Hospital,
situated at 522-18th Ave. W. Calgary for Sick and Crippled Children with its 38 beds and its patients of every nationality and creed is one of the finest institutions in the Dominion of Canada. The maintenance of this Hospital is the combined effort of the children of the Red Cross who through their 800 Branches assist in the raising of funds. The Government also sends a special grant to assist this most worthy cause. But there are many other costs incidental to the Red Cross service for the sick and crippled children. The gift of two hundred dollars annually will endow a bed for some sick child and with this assistance even for a partial number of beds the work of the Red Cross will be placed on a much more sound and satisfactory basis. Not only will some crippled child receive the treatment needed as a result of the Branch endowing a bed, but there will be a great encouragement given to the Junior Red Cross Branches everywhere which are trying their best to send in their share towards the work.

A card attached to the head of each Hospital Cot will carry the name of the Society which has been generous enough to assist by its contributions.
Payment of the endowment may be made in instalments if desired. Already in Alberta there has been awakened a great interest in the scheme. High River the first town to money for a brass plate to be attached with the name of the Etzikom also endowed a bed, and it is hoped that shortly other Branches will be

The endowment of a Hospital Cot for a sick child who otherwise would have to be handicapped through lack of funds is a community service which has a great appeal and all who love children will be glad of this opportunity to do good by assisting the Red Cross in its humanitarian efforts.

But now, when the door plates of

Are read, each so constantly varies From the owner's trade, figure, and calling, surnames Seem given by the rule of contraries.

I could tell of more fools without number or end,
That with all this I telling I never shall mend,
And perhaps lose myself, both my sense and my labor,
And perhaps I am quite as great fool
as my neighbor.

GRANDMOTHER'S COOKIE JAR Grandmother's Cookie Jar: The very words are delicious. Your mouth waters for the crisp sugary confections, and the snappy stinger variety, and the richly toothsome ones with nuts and fruit all through them!
Here is a recipe my mother carefully penned on the flyleaf of grandmother's cook book, when she was a little girl and had her first lessons in housekeeping from grandmother:

COOKIES
2 cups of sugar; 1 cup butter; 1 cup milk; 1 teaspoon soda; 1 teaspoon of Cream of Tartar.
Another recipe grandmother wrote in the book herself and named for mother (she was Victoria Marie, called Vickie for short) is as follows:

VICKIE'S COOKIES
1 cup butter; 2 cups sugar; 2 eggs;
1 teaspoonful soda; 2 teaspoons
Cream of Tartar; Mix very soft.
Salaratus cookies grandmother made as follows.

SALARATUS COOKIES
1 cup sugar; 1 cup cream; Butter the size of a butternut; 1 egg; 1 teaspoon of salaratus.
Grandfather liked Crullers. She made them for him as follows:

CRULLERS
1 egg; 1 cup of sugar; 3 spoons of butter; 3 of sweet milk; soda the size of a pea.
Another cruller recipe I find penciled in a tiny, old-fashioned script on the edge of one of the pages is like this:

CRULLIES
5 eggs; 1 cup sugar; salaratus; 1 spoonful sweet milk.

JUMBLES
Here is a Jumbles recipe taken from the Ladies' Companion of 1859,
one of mother's treasures:
Rub to a cream a pound of sugar and half a pound of butter; and eight well beaten eggs; essence of lemon or rose-water to the taste, and flour to make the jumbles stiff enough for rolling out. Roll out in powdered sugar about an inch wide and four inches long, and form them into rings by joining the ends. Lay them on flat buttered tins, and bake in a quick oven.
(These were the days before eggs were 5c or 6c apiece, and butter was not 50c or more a pound. I think grandmother made her own butter, and kept hens.)

RICH JUMBLES
A richer recipe from the same source says:
Rub to a cream a pound of butter and a pound of sugar; mix with it a pound and a half of flour, four eggs, and a very little brandy. Roll the cakes in powdered sugar, and bake.
Written in a long, old-fashioned script in faded ink and signed "Sara"
I find the following recipe for Scotch Scones (spelled "Scons" in the copy)

PRAIRIE CHICKEN SEASON OPENS

Wednesday was the opening day of the prairie chicken shooting season, and a large number of Macleod nim-rods proceeded to their favored spots to take a pot at the chicken, and several good bags were brought in.
The chicken in Alberta are gradually becoming extinct, while the Hungarian Partridge is multiplying rapidly. Several authorities claim that the partridge is the cause of the elimination of the prairie chicken, as the former bird destroys the eggs of the prairie chicken. The Hungarian partridge is a small member of the partridge family, and with its tremendous speed of flight makes the shooting very difficult, although quite a number of them have been bagged this year.

How to buy a Fountain Pen

The pen you buy is to act as your constant companion—it is to serve you every day. When you will be downright in it all your writing. And there is but one way to make the purchase.
Select it as you would any other life companion.

Does it carry an ample supply of ink and the proper nib for your particular style?
Is it well-balanced and of correct weight?
Is it easy to hold? Does the ink flow freely and evenly? Is the pen efficient in every way? Is it made in Canada? Does it carry the name and reputation of a worthy, long established manufacturer?

Also to get the best possible service and value for your money—of the fountain pen all of the time—buy a Waterman's.
Waterman's Ideal has been the world's leading pen for over 40 years. It leads today.

HERMITS
This is the recipe for Mering Cookies from the book of "Things Mother Used to Make," which L. M. Gurney got out a couple of years ago:
1 cupful of sugar; 1/2 cupful of molasses; 2-3 cupful of butter; 2 eggs; 1 cupful of raisins, chopped fine; 2 tablespoonfuls of milk; 1 teaspoonful of soda; 1 teaspoonful of cinnamon; 1 teaspoonful of nutmeg;
1/2 teaspoonful of cloves; flour enough to roll.

Cream the butter and sugar together, beat the eggs, add to the butter and sugar, then stir in the molasses, milk and spices, add the raisins which have been covered with flour, and last of all, the flour into which the dry soda has been sifted.
Roll thin and cut with a cookie cutter.

ALMOND ROCKS
Cleve Carney, for twenty years a practical baker with French Pastry specialties, gives us the following recipe for 5 1/2 dozen Almond Rocks:
Beat 8 egg whites till stiff. Gradually add a pound of powdered sugar and 3/4 pound of shelled almonds, crushed and either vanilla or cinnamon flavoring to taste. Lay on greased and dusted pans in the shape of small rocks, using a fork to pile it up, and back in a slack oven.

HUMPTY DUMPTY
Humpty Dumpty sat on a wall,
Humpty Dumpty had a great fall.
Not all the King's Horses, nor all the King's men
Could set Humpty Dumpty, up again.

It always seemed peculiar to me,
why, when every other character in Nursery Land should be a living creature, that this well known and favorite rhyme should refer to an egg.

As I grew older this puzzled me far more, so I determined to find out why, and one evening I asked Mother
Hubbard over the Radio, if Humpty
Dumpty was really an egg.

At this question Mother Hubbard went into rhapsodies of merriment, and replied, "Really Aunt Peggy, after all your talks with our Nursery people, hearing all their little histories, to think that Humpty Dumpty does not breathe, and that it refers to a silly egg, that some wise person of your World thought was the answer. Tomorrow morning, about noon, you go out into your shrubbery and stand by the north east wall, and you will soon find that Humpty Dumpty is not an egg, and please Aunt Peggy don't lose faith in our little people like that."

I felt somewhat like a whipped child, as after all said and done, if I had not doubted Humpty Dumpty was an egg, I wouldn't have enquired, but anyway I had the satisfaction of knowing that I was to find out in the morning.

Following Mother Hubbard's instructions, about noon next morning I walked over to my shrubbery, and was leaning against the North West wall, when I heard a very soft muffled rather deep voice exclaiming:
"If some of those inquisitive Earth people would pack all their troubles around with them, like I do, and take their time over things, not jump to conclusions, the World would be a whole lot better, and Humpty

MACLEOD METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. G. D. Armstrong, Minister

(Sunday Services, October 5th.)

11 a.m.—"The Inner Circle."
7.30 p.m.—"The Cross as a Social Principle."

Rev. G. D. Armstrong will preach at both services.

Harvest Thanksgiving services will be held on Sunday October 12th. These promise to be of special value. The Rev. Aubrey S. Tuttle, D.D., principal of Alberta College, Edmonton, will preach at both services. While Dr. Tuttle is a comparative stranger to Macleod, his name and work is familiar to every Methodist in Alberta. Coming to the West about 20 years ago he has had successful pastorates in Edmonton, Calgary and Medicine Hat. When Dr. J. H. Riddell returned to Winnipeg as principal of Wesley College, Dr. Tuttle, who was then Pastor of McDougall Church, Edmonton, was chosen to succeed him. Always a thoughtful preacher and deeply interested in present day problems, his work has not been confined to the class room. His close personal contact with the University and student life has given him a strong grasp of the vital issues of the moral and religious life of to-day. He has thought his way through these living issues and is giving both to the students and congregations who hear him a strong, positive, helpful

NEXT GOLF TOURNAMENT AT PINCHER CREEK

At the annual meeting of the Crow's Nest Golf Association held last week, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year. President G. D. Plunkett, Pincher Creek; Vice President, D. G. Mackenzie, Blairmore; Secretary, A. J. Kelly, Blairmore; two courses were offered for next year's tourney, Lethbridge and Pincher Creek, and the latter town was chosen after a very close ballot. The Tournament lasts about three days, and is open to all members of the Crow's Nest Golf Association.

COMMENCEMENT DAY AT MACLEOD SCHOOL

The Macleod Public School on Friday last celebrated "Commencement Day," which is the biggest day in the school year both for pupils, staff, and the parents and friends of the pupils. It was the occasion of the annual distribution of prizes, awarded to scholars who had attained the highest standing in their grades for the past year. In the absence of chairman, W. A. Day of the School Board, the Rev. G. D. Armstrong presided, and also presented the prizes. Mayor McDonald, in a splendid address eulogised the work the pupils had done, and the splendid record they had made during the past three terms. He paid special tribute to Gwendolyn Martin, the High School pupil who had won the special prize offered to the scholar in the school for Good Citizenship, which included general progress in all subjects, personality, good influence, and helpfulness to all connected with the school. In closing, the Mayor told the children they were now enjoying the best time of their lives, and they all should strive hard to win prizes, secure all the knowledge they could obtain, and help their teachers and masters in every way.

The children together with their parents, teachers and friends assembled in the auditorium, and after singing the National Anthem, "O Canada" and "Land of Hope and Glory," the prizes were awarded, at the finish of which, the youngsters were marched back to their classrooms, and treated to ice cream and other delicacies.

Dyke, Graham Faunt; presented by Miss Bishop—Gwendolyn Martin, Sidney Brooks; presented by Jubilee Committee—Wilfred Thiel, Bob Toogood, Jack McDonald, Allan Gordon, Gordon Winter, Tom Bell, Jim Bell, Sarah Thomas, Roy Bolla. The High School prizes will not be awarded until the complete returns are received from the Department.

MACLEOD CROPS ARE SHOWING BIG YIELDS

The results of the threshing in the Macleod district to date are showing up far better yields than anticipated, naturally there are some disappointments, but the majority of the crops are more than satisfying their owners. In the south country many of the crops are averaging 35 bushels to the acre, while in several instances forty have been reported. Jack McLellan threshed one field that went forty bushels, and his whole crop will average up to nearly forty bushels to the acre. In the north the crops are also showing good results, averaging anywhere from 20 to 35 bushels to the acre. In the east and west fairly good reports have been received from those who have threshed and it is safe to say that the yields from both wheat, barley and oats in the Macleod district, will make the best showing of any district in Western Canada this year.

VICE-PRESIDENT ATTENDS I. O. O. F. REBEKAH LODGE

On Tuesday September 23rd, Mrs. E. F. Brown vice-president of the Rebekah Assembly of Alberta paid her official visit to Mountain View Rebekah Lodge No. 23, Macleod, Alberta.

A good turn out of members greeted the vice-president and listened with great interest to a pleasing outline of the rise and progress of the Rebekah Branch of the I. O. O. F. Sister Brown spoke especially of the I. O. O. F. Homes which are considered the special work of the sisters in regard to the care given to orphans and the destitute.

Speeches were made by other members, and the lodge presented the Vice President with a beautiful floral bouquet.

After refreshments were served a charming musical program brought a very enjoyable evening to a close, which was heartily enjoyed by all present.

The only thing that seems more helpless than a new baby is a pitcher at bat.

MORNING GLORIES

I know where grow some crooked apple-trees,
And in the spring their blossom
Was sweet
Was massed against a lichen-covered wall
Upon our street.

A little while, and lo! in silent showers
The blossoms gently fell, and lay
Like snowy drifts—a feathery mantle white—
Upon the street.

Then as new wonders daily dawned and passed,
Forgotten were those orchard trees,
Until the day when rosy apples
Blushed
Upon our street.

The early frosts of autumn soon replaced
The glory of the summer fields
With mellow shades and golden,
leafy tints
Upon our street.

But somehow autumn missed the apple-trees
Which stood like faded debutantes,
Dismantled now—reminders of the past—
Upon our street.

Until the Morning Glories, creeping by,
Beheld their sad estate, and said:
"Here let us climb, and glorify these trees
Upon the street."

Once more the crooked apple-trees are gay
With colors choice (though not their own),
And in the autumn beauty have a share
Upon our street.

DRY GOODS, BOOTS & SHOES, CLOTHING, ETC., GROCERIES, FRUITS, VEGETABLES, PROVISIONS, ETC.

Last week we advertised to you ladies stating that a demonstrator was coming for three days to show you the merits of the styles, quality and popular cut prices of
The FASHION CLOAK CO., Toronto.

He came and went away the same day through a mistake with his firm. He was not advised of the arrangement made with the manufacturers to stay three days. He stayed long enough, however, to convince us that he had the goods. We therefore got a few dozen representative garments, which will arrive in a week or so.

BOOTS AND SHOES

Our window has showed you some remarkable bargains in ladies shoes, oxfords, ties, straps, etc.

Some of the most enticing shoes are a little accentuated in a pointed toe. By taking half a size larger you get a perfect fit, as the width is there.
